UPON hearing the counsel the Court made the following
O R D E R

IA nos. 10-12 of 2017 in Civil Appeal Nos. 3797-3799 of 2011

The appellant-applicant is a housing society who was allotted a certain parcel of land by a G.O.Ms no. 424 dated 25th March, 2008 in the erstwhile State of Andhra Pradesh. On the same day, by different orders, the State had allotted different parcels of land in favour of various other housing cooperative societies. The applicant society is a society of journalists. Some of the other societies are societies comprising of Members of the Legislative Assembly etc.

The allotments came to be challenged by Public

Interest Litigation. The writ petition was allowed by the impugned judgment of the High Court. Hence appeals.

During the pendency of these appeals, the societies other than the appellant society were allowed to develop the parcels of land allotted to each one of them. However, they were not permitted to make allotments and constructions. The appellant society, it appears, was not given possession of the land allotted to them in view of the impugned judgment. Admittedly, the appellant society paid an amount of Rs. 12.33 crores, a fact which the learned Advocate General appearing for the State, acknowledges.

In the circumstances, we do not see any reason to treat the appellant society differently. The State is at liberty to hand over possession of the property which is the subject matter of the above-mentioned GOMs no. 424 to the appellant society without prejudice to the final decision of this Court in the matter. The appellant society shall take such steps to protect the property from encroachment and also permitted to undertake development activity of the land without making construction of the buildings.

In the meantime, we modify the interim order dated 14th May, 2010, to the limited extent that the allottees/societies, who are already in possession of the subject land, may develop the land at their own risk and cost and they shall not claim any equities in their favour, if ultimately they fail in these appeals. Rest of the conditions imposed in interim order dated 19th April, 2008 passed by the High Court shall continue to be in force.

IA stands disposed of accordingly.

List all the appeals on August 9, 2017 as part heard.
